Portfolio Commentary

- In August, downward pressure across financial assets returned as increasingly hawkish policy expectations came out of the Fed's annual economic symposium in Jackson Hole with Chair Powell's keynote address
- In this context, the portfolio reduced exposures yet ultimately suffered losses driven by inflation-linked bonds, Treasuries, emerging market debt, and high-yield credit positions
- Positive contributions from bank loans and convertible bonds delivered upside for the portfolio, providing diversification in what proved to be a challenging environment for most stock and bond markets
- Selling pressure has once again disrupted long-term relationships amidst heightened economic uncertainty, and the portfolio is positioned to actively harvest the resulting opportunities across fixed income markets with a balance to potential outcomes for the economy in a quickly evolving policy environment

Notes: Correlation is a statistic that measures the degree to which two securities move in relation to each other. Daily correlation since inception; ¹ Morningstar Global Government Bond Index, ² Bloomberg Global High Yield Corp Index, ³ S&P / Goldman Sachs Commodity Index, ⁴ Bloomberg World Real Estate Index, ⁵ HFRX Fixed Income - Credit Index, ⁶ Bloomberg Global Aggregate Bond Index. ITD represents performance since the fund's inception on 9/30/2013. See end of fact sheet for index definitions and descriptions.

NOTES:

Prior to August 26, 2022, the Wavelength Fund was named the Wavelength Interest Rate Neutral Fund.

You can not invest directly in an index. The S&P/BGCantor U.S. Treasury Bill Index is a broad, comprehensive, market-value weighted index that seeks to measure the performance of the U.S. Treasury Bill market. The Bloomberg Barclays Global Aggregate Bond Index is a global bond benchmark that includes treasury, government-related, and securitized bonds. The Bloomberg US Aggregate Bond Index is a broad-based flagship benchmark that measures the investment grade, US dollar-denominated, fixed-rate taxable bond market. Morningstar Global Government Bond Index includes bonds issued by the governments of the world's most robust developed markets. The Bloomberg Global High Yield Index is a multi-currency flagship measure of the global high yield debt market. S&P / Goldman Sachs Commodity Index is a composite index of commodity sector returns representing an unleveraged, long-only investment in commodity futures that is broadly diversified across the spectrum of commodities. Bloomberg World Real Estate Index is a capitalization-weighted index of the leading real estate stocks in the world. HFRX Fixed Income - Credit Index includes strategies with exposure to credit across a broad continuum of credit sub-strategies.

PRINCIPAL RISKS:

The use of derivatives, forward and futures contracts, and commodities exposes the Fund to additional risks including increased volatility, lack of liquidity, and possible losses greater than the Fund's initial investment as well as increased transaction costs. Concentration generally will lead to greater price volatility.

This Fund enters into a short sale by selling a security it has borrowed. If the market price of a security increases after the Fund borrows the security, the Fund will suffer a potentially unlimited loss when it replaces the borrowed security at the higher price. Short sales also involve transaction and other costs that will reduce potential Fund gains and increase potential Fund losses. Diversification does not eliminate risk. An investor considering the Fund should be able to tolerate potentially wide price fluctuations. The Fund is subject to high portfolio turnover risk as a result of frequent trading, and thus, will incur a higher level of brokerage fees and commissions, and cause a higher level of tax liability to shareholders in the Fund. The Fund may attempt to increase its income or total return through the use of securities lending, and they may be subject to the possibility of additional loss as a result of this investment technique.

This Fund is a non-diversified fund. Because the fund may invest in securities of smaller numbers of issuers, the Fund may be more exposed to the risks associated with and developments affecting an individual issuer than a fund that invests more widely, which may, therefore, have a greater impact on the Fund's performance.

This Fund is not suitable for all investors.

Investors should carefully consider the investment objectives, risks, charges and expenses of the Fund before investing.
